“ I have short sweet memories of uncle Mingo (what we kids called him). There was the time he let me drive on highway 18 for the first time and I slipped missed second gear and put it in reverse. Car made a weird noise and so did Mingo. Lol No he didn't curse, I don't think I ever heard him curse. He knew Jesus. We attended Lunsford Baptize Church. Mingo and I once did a trivia on God's word. Than there was grandma Lola's fried chicken. Mingo and uncle Demise raced for the legs. Lol grandma would chase them out of the kitchen. Lol back than the kitchen would also act as a bathtub room. Once while out doing his walk exercise for his leg , Mingo was sprayed by a skunk. They fixed him a tub soak , my aunt Mary (his sister), would keep walking through the kitchen just to hear him squeal.lol Than there's the famous blue car. Think it was a Camaro , not sure. Had to remove shoes before getting in lol. But he let my dad (Lorenzo) borrow it to go to Memphis when my mom was in the hospital. That meant so much to dad. Thank you. To Michelle and Terry, rest assured that your dad loved you. When his marriage ended he looked for someone he could trust to care for you. That being aunt Mary, she stood by him at good times and bad. He could count on her 100%. And with God's grace they're standing together again. Amen. Your cousin Frances (francasca) Trinidad
