“ Pops wasn't quick to say, "I love you" or "I'm proud of you" - I think his heart would have burst because he was so full of love and pride he didn't know how to express it. He taught all of his children, biological and not, to be extremely strong and to follow in his footsteps by being 'all we could be'. I learned how to do things and how 'not' to do things by watching him carefully and remembering every lesson. When told I couldn't do something good, I've always said, "watch me" in that same determined spirit he demonstrated. It didn't matter that he never built a house before - he built one from the foundation to the roof. I learned a lot, including how electricity could blow a full grown man off of a ladder across the room in a millisecond. Pops took that into stride and said, "hmm - maybe I should have wet my finger first". Everyone's lesson in life should be this - never let an obstacle become too tall to climb, especially if it's saying, "I love you" or "I'm proud of you". I promise your heart won't burst... Thank you, Laura.

“ Mr. Barnes was an initiative Superintendent for his time! For such a small school, Swifton had the best teachers in the state! My education was not lacking! Because of him and the teachers he hired and coached, I chose to go into education. He is one of the few "good men" that I had as an example growing up. I will be forever grateful that I was lucky enough to know him, Ms. Pat and the guys. Rest in Love, I will never forget your kindness.

I worked with Loran several years while he was doing taxes and had so much respect for Him! I loved listening to him and co-worker James Morris telling war stories! Loran was a wise man with great love for his wife Pat! ❤️ 😔
