“ Although I have not seen him since we graduated I will always remember him as a very nice young man with such a cute grin. Prayers go out to his family in their loss.

“ Growing up out of state made me love and appreciate my relatives in the south that much more...Roy was no exception to this! I always looked forward to seeing him when I returned and my heart always felt tethered to him! I had gone from sharing food with him as a toddler to sharing conversations about vintage cameras as an adult, but no matter what the case or how much time had passed between visits with him I could always pick right up where I left off without a hitch! I always love listening to him and my mother and aunt share stories of their childhood together and he always found a way to tie me in or provide an example of how I had so much of my Mama in me based on some of those stories. He was a strong force of nature that's sole purpose in my eyes was to keep me rooted and knowing exactly where my home was no matter where in the world I happen to be. I will always love Roy and he will be missed dearly!

“ While I only met Roy in person once, marrying into the Grimoldby family meant I gained a true, lifelong friend in Roy. I've heard great stories from my mother-in-law, Madeline Grimoldby, about the fun times she shared with Roy and what a true friend he was. Roy gave me my first motorcycle ride ever, and while on that ride, I could sense that he loved life and freedom - the wind in our hair blew all our cares away, and I felt a sense of exhilaration and excitement in him that I will always remember.

I may not have known Roy long, but it didn't take long to know I liked him. I know he was a true blessing to my family for a long time, and I thank him for his friendship.

*God's blessings,
Stephanie*

Roy had always been like an Uncle to me, I will miss our visits when we go down south to visit the family. I'm proud that he was able to give my wife her first motorcyle ride. I'm sad to see one of my Moms closest friends go.

*Gods Blessings,
Kevin*

“ My heart goes out to all of Roy's family and friends. He was fiercely loyal and a nice man, I will miss him greatly! I was a child when I met him and feared him, a teenager when I didn't quite understood him and an adult when I figured him out. I'm so happy to have had that time with him. My condolences
